

---

---

C O N T E N T S

Details of contents follow this brief table of contents.

Preface to the Third Edition .....	1
Preface for students .....	2
Acknowledgments .....	3
Reviews
Pre-publication professional reviews .....	5
Reviews by professors who have used this book .....	8
Introduction .....	11

PART ONE: ELEMENTS OF LITERATURE

Chapter One: Topics and Themes : Basic Components of Interpretation and Tools to Sharpen Critical Thinking .....	17
Chapter Two: Characters .....	39
Chapter Three: Plot .....	57
Chapter Four: Style .....	79

PART TWO: READING AND WRITING ADVICE

applicable to all genres

Chapter Five: Reading Skills for Interpretation: Guidelines and Samples .....	117
Chapter Six: Informal Interpretation: Using the Journal Format .....	133
Chapter Seven: Formal Interpretation: Writing Assignments on Themes and Style with Step-by-Step Instructions and Advice .....	187
Chapter Eight: Revising .....	213

PART THREE: STUDY BY GENRE

Chapter Nine: Essays .....	235
Chapter Ten: The Short Story .....	255
Chapter Eleven: Novel .....	381
Chapter Twelve: Drama .....	447
Chapter Thirteen: Poetry .....	523
Chapter Fourteen: Film .....	669
Chapter Fifteen: Playful Responses to Serious Works: Literature for Laughter .....	675
Appendix: Information on research and citation .....	693
Works Cited .....	699
Index .....	707
Copyright Acknowledgments

Detailed Table of Contents

Preface to the Third Edition, 1

Preface for Students, 2

Acknowledgments, 3

Reviews, 5

Introduction, 11

Chapter One: Topics and Themes 17

Topics and themes: Basic components of interpretation and tools to sharpen critical thinking, 17

Theme and its central place in interpreting literature and film, 18

“What’s in it for me?” Personal enrichment from interpretive reading, 19

Distinguishing topic from theme, 20

“Mirror,” a poem by Sylvia Plath, 21

The first major challenge in interpretation: Distinguishing between plot summary and statement of theme, 23

“The Man from Kabul,” by Rabindranath Tagore, 23-28

Plot summary (with fewest possible analytic/interpretive comments), 29

Theme formulation (with fewest possible plot summary details), 30

Criteria for good statements of themes, 30

Combining skill with creativity in generating statements of theme, 31

A rule of thumb, 31

Alternative ways of stating themes, 32

“Vergissmeinnicht,” a poem by Keith Douglas, 32

Advice on experimentation, 33

Organization of an interpretive essay, 34

Placement of statements of themes, 35

Length ratio: Analysis versus summarizing, 35

How supporting details are organized, 36

Works ideally suited to interpretation: Explicit versus implied themes, 36

Exercises to test your mastery of Chapter One, 37

Chapter Two: Characters, 39

What makes a good character analysis, 39

Characterization and characters, 40

Character sketch versus character analysis, 40

Character-related topics, 41

Interpretation through comparing and contrasting characters, 41

Interpretation through a character’s self analysis, 42

Protagonist, antagonist, foil, and the anti-hero, 43

Flat, round and fragmented characters, 44

Interpretation through character analysis: connecting character with theme, 46

“The Short Happy Life of Francis Macomber,” by Ernest Hemingway, 46

Women in Love: Creative vs. destructive love, 46

Themes extracted from the preceding character analysis, 47

“The Other Side of the Hedge,” a short story by E. M. Forster, 49-53

Interpretation of E.M. Forster’s “The Other Side of the Hedge” through character analysis, 53

“The Awakening of Forster’s Imperfect Narrator.” Sample essay by the author of this book, 53

Exercises to test your mastery of Chapter Two, 55

Timed, self-test exercises, 56

Chapter Three: Plot, 57

Definitions and essential features of the classical plot, 57

Plot variations: simple, complex, episodic, melodramatic, inert, and intuitive, 60

Simple and complex plots, 60; Episodic plots, 60; Melodramatic plots, 60

Inert plots, 61; Intuitively organized plots, 61

Plot components, 61

Illustration of plot components in Hamlet, 62

Plot-structuring devices, 63

The primary plot-structuring device, 63

Secondary plot-structuring devices, 65

The three unities of classical drama, 66

Use of chance/coincidence, 67

Changing concepts of dramatic action, 68

Movement of plot action, 68

Horizontal vs. vertical movement, 68

Classical movement of plot action, 69

Plot movement in individual scenes, 70

Tips for plot analysis, 70

Faulkner’s plotting skill in “A Rose for Emily.” Sample essay by the author of this book, 71

Plot analysis of longer works, 73

Experimenting with plot design, 74

Creating a missing scene, 74

Changing the original ending, 75

Transition to the next chapter, “Style,” 75

Exercises to test your mastery of Chapter Three, 76

Timed self-test exercises, 76

Timed self-test topics, 78

Chapter Four: Style, 79

Definitions of style, 80

Do authors choose their stylistic elements? 81

Appreciating literary style, 82

Analyzing style in literature, 83

Maintaining correct focus, 84

Style-theme connection, 84

Elements of style often used in drama and fiction, 85

Elements shared by both plot and style: The esthetics of omission, 85; dramatic and situational irony, 86; repetition of key plot details, 87; setting and atmosphere, 89; foreshadowing, 90; parallelism, 90

Style in poetry, 91

Example via “The Story of Adam,” a poem by Muhammad Iqbal, 91

Elements of style common to all literary works, 93

Imagery, 93

“Meeting at Night,” a poem by Robert Browning, 93

simile, 94; metaphor, 94; analogy, 95; synesthesia, 96; diction, 96; symbolism 98; allegory, 99; allusion, 99; personification and animation, 100; narrative point of view, 100; first-person point of view, 101; third-person point of view 101; other narrative styles, 102; third-person narrator who is not omniscient, 102; the objective or dramatic point of view, 102; use of multiple narrators, 102; rarely used narration in the second person, 102; tone and verbal irony, 103; summing up irony, 103; contrast, 104; understatement, 104; paradox, 106; characterization, 107.

Stylistic elements work in combination, 109

Example via “God’s Grandeur,” a sonnet by Gerard M. Hopkins, 109

Interconnectedness of theme, character, plot, and style, 110

Example via “The Short Happy Life of Francis Macomber,” a short story by Hemingway, 110

Essay by the author of this book “Characters, Plot, and Style in Hemingway’s The Short Happy Life of Francis Macomber,” 110

Exercises to test your mastery of Chapter Four, 113

Chapter Five: Reading Skills for Interpretation, 117

Active reading style and taking mental notes, 117

Annotating the pages that you read; Active reading, 118

Learning the skill of explication, 119

Example via “London,” a poem by William Blake, 119

Student sample essay on “London,” 119

Sample explication of a section from a complex, longer poem, 121

Example via “The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock,” a short story by T.S. Eliot, 121

Sample explication of a section from a short story, 121

Example via “The Story of an Hour” by Kate Chopin, 121

Hard to explicate works, 122

Example via “Naming of Parts,” a poem by Henry Reed, 122

Explication of the poem, “Naming of Parts,” 123

Learning the skill of analysis, 124

Example via “Discovery of the New World,” a poem by Carter Revard, 125

Two student sample essays on “Discovery of the New World,” 126-128

Using analysis to interpret fiction, 129

Interpretation of William Faulkner’s short story “A Rose for Emily” by the author of this book, 129

Interpretation through style analysis, 129

Interpretation through character analysis, 129

The process of discovering themes: Summing up the chapter, 130

Summary of clues to recognizing themes in literature and film, 131

Exercises to test your mastery of Chapter Five, 132

Chapter Six: Informal Interpretation, 133

Using the journal format, 133

Journaling as a passport to good writing, 133

Definitions of literary forms, 133

Steps in journaling, 134

Two journal formats, 134

Informal and free flowing format, 134

Structured format, 135

Rationale for including more than usual sample essays and literary works in this chapter, 135

Informal journal format, 136

Students' journal responses, 136

Responses to poems, 136

Samples on "Constantly Risking Absurdity" by Lawrence Ferlinghetti, 136; "Not Waving But Drowning" by Stevie Smith, 137; "Those Winter Sundays" by Robert Hayden, 138.

Responses to short stories, 139

Sample on "Lullaby" by Leslie Marmon Silko, 139

Responses to novels, 139

Sample essays on: The Great Gatsby by F. Scott Fitzgerald, 140; Wuthering Heights by Emily Bronte, 140

Responses to plays, 141

Structured journal format, 142

Advice on appreciating an author's style, 143

Importance of focus, 143

Optional journal items: personal enrichment; research input; cultural insight; concluding comment, 144

Journaling poems, 145

Samples on "Those Winter Sundays" by Robert Hayden, 145; "Dover Beach" by Matthew Arnold, 147; "Mirror" by Sylvia Plath, 149; "One Art" by Elizabeth Bishop, 150; "Mr. Z" by M. Carl Holman, 152; "To Autumn" by John Keats, 154

Journaling short stories: 156

Timed journal entries, 157

Samples on "Odor" by Saadat H. Manto, 157-163; "The Sojourner" by Carson McCullers, 163-171; "The Guest" by Albert Camus, 171-173; "Tlon, Uqbar, Orbus Tertius" by Jorge Luis Borges, 173-176

Journaling novels: 176; samples on Deep River by Shusaku Endo, 176; and A Passage to India by E. M. Forster, 178

Journaling plays, 178

Sample on Hamlet, 178

Sample of limited coverage of Hamlet, 180

Journal entries on works of nonfiction: Responses to essays, 181

Sample on "Courtship Through the Ages" by James Thurber, 181

Journaling a movie, 182

Samples on A Prince Among Slaves and Samapti, 183

Exercises to test your mastery of Chapter Six, 186

Chapter Seven: Formal Interpretation, 187

- Writing assignments with step-by-step instructions and advice, 187
- Structure and organization, 187
- The short story, 188
- Assignments, 188
- Writing on themes, 188
- Step-by-step instructions, 190
- Thesis: part-by-part variety, 191 ; cluster variety, 191-196
- Strategies for coherence, 197
- Topic sentences, 198
- General reminder on the form of organized writing, 200
- Creative ways to introduce variety in form, 200
- Sample essay on themes in “The Story of an Hour” by Kate Chopin, 201-205
- Format for an essay with a cluster thesis, 206
- Writing on an author’s style, 207
- Step-by-step instructions, 208
- Sample essay on style in “The Chase” by Alberto Moravia, on author’s website, 210
- Complete preparation to interpret any work, 210
- Exercises to test your mastery of Chapter Seven, 211

Chapter Eight: Revising, 213

- Revision, 213
- Achieving clarity and brevity, 214
- Finding your own voice, 214
- The role of stylistic elements in the writing process, 215
- Steps for style improvement, 216
- Compulsory revision, 217
- Requirements of good writing 217
- Definitions and examples of sentence structure variations, 218
- Loose sentence; cumulative sentence, 218
- Periodic/suspended sentence, 219
- Balanced sentence; antithetical sentence, 220
- Isocolon; anaphora, parallelism; chiasmus, 221
- Combination of methods, 222
- Variety in paragraph organization, 222
- Deductive, inductive, and climactic arrangement of details, 222
- Other rhetorical/stylistic devices, 223
- Optional revision, 223
- Step-by-step method of style improvement, 224
- When you are unable to use a needed element of style, 224
- First example of revising for brevity and impact (on the short story “Araby” by James Joyce), 225
- First draft, 226; Revised version, 227
- Second example of revising, correcting topic and theme (on the short story “Lullaby” by Leslie Silko), 227
- First draft, 228; Revised version, 228
- Third example of revising for improved focus (on the short story “Lullaby” by Leslie Silko), 229
- First draft, 230; Revised version, 230

Fourth example of revising, from informal to formal writing (on the novel America is in the Heart by Carlos Bulosan), 231; First draft, 231; Revised version, 231

Checklist of common errors: The final step in revising, 231

Exercises to test your mastery of Chapter Eight, 232

Chapter Nine: Essays, 235

Philosophical essays, 235; Expository, argumentative essays, 236; Essays that mix exposition with narration, 236; Humorous essays with strong messages, 237; Critical essays, 237; Descriptive essays, 237
Ways to read essays, 237

Suggested format for journaling essays, 238

Responding to essays, 238

Essay: "Excerpt from Between Hell and Reason: Essays from the Resistance Newspaper Combat" by Albert Camus, 238-239

Journal response by the author of this book, 240

"The Myth of Sisyphus," an essay by Albert Camus, 241-244

"A Free Man's Worship," an essay by Bertrand Russell (read online), 244

Sample journal by the author of this book on Camus and Russell, 245

Samples on "Reflections on Exile," an essay by Edward Said (read online), 246-250

Essay: "Edward Said on Orientalism," by Edward Said (read online), 250

Journaling essays that combine narration with exposition, 251

"On Being Crazy," an essay by W.E.B. DuBois, 251

Journal response by the author of this book on "On Being Crazy," 253

Exercises to test your mastery of Chapter Nine, 254

Chapter Ten: The Short Story, 255

Options for writing on short stories, 255

Sample essays, 259

"On the Market Day" by Kyalo Mativo, 259

Informal interpretive essay on this story, 265

Formal journal to an essay: Sample essay on Saadat Manto's story "Odor," 267

Explicating a story, 273

"The Guest" by Albert Camus, 273

Sample explication of Albert Camus' story, 281

Hope in despair: "Silver Lining in the Gray Sky, sample essay on Ernest Gaines' story "The Sky Is Gray," 283. [Read this story on your own; viewing the excellent, short film adaptation of this story is strongly recommended.]

Theme and style, 287

"Lullaby" by Leslie Marmon Silko, 287

"Means of Survival," sample essay on Silko's story, 292

Writing on just one topic from a story, 295

Sample essay: Existentialism in Ernest Hemingway's story "A Clean Well-Lighted Place," (read story online), 295

Interpretation through character analysis, 297

"Araby" by James Joyce, 297

The Road to Araby – An Impossible Journey: Sample essay on James Joyce's story, 301

Interpretation through an author's style of writing, 305

Sample essay on Hemingway's style in his story "The Short Happy Life of Francis Macomber, (read story online), 305

Annotating an essay, 307

Becoming a collaborator or a critic, 308

“The Word Love” by Chitra Divakaruni, 308

The Unbearable Weight of Love: Sample essay on “The Word Love,” 315

Stories of violations of basic human rights and urgent social concern, 318

“The Only Traffic Signal on the Reservation Doesn’t Flash Red Anymore” by Sherman Alexie, 318; “The Rape” by Khushwant Singh, 325

Sample essays on “The Only Traffic Signal”: Balancing Hope Against Despair, 323; The Magic of Heroes (on my website)

Sample essay on “The Rape” by the author of this book on my website

“Samapti” by Rabindranath Tagore (read on your own), 329

Sample essay on the Tagore story, 329

Confronting international conflicts through the clarifying lens of fiction, 331

“Tamam” by Betty Shamieh, 331

“The Orchard” by Alan Kaufman, 334

Sample essays on the above two stories: Bridging the Divide between Palestinians and Israelis, 335; There Must Be a Better Way, 336; Prospects for Peace between Israel and Palestine, 337

“The Dog of Tithwal” by Saadat Manto, 338 (read story online); the sample essay is on my website

Similar themes in works by different authors, 338

The price of right conduct in the wrong environment, 339

Stories that deal with pain to offer healing and consolation, 339

“This is What it Means to Say Phoenix, Arizona” by Sherman Alexie (read online), 339

Sample journal entry on the Alexie story, 339

Stories for further reading, 340

“Hills Like White Elephants” by Ernest Hemingway (online reading), 340; “A Little Incident” by Lu Hsun, 340; “Early Autumn” by Langston Hughes, 342; “Bahiyya’s Eyes” by Alifa Rifaat, 343; “The Weed” by Amrita Pritam, 347; “The Gift of the Magi” by O. Henry, 352; “Las Papas” by Julio Ortega, 355; “One of These Days” by Gabriel Garcia Marquez, 358; “Homecoming” by Ibrahim An-Nasir, 360; “A Fairy Tale” by Ihsan Abd al-Quddus, 363; “Child’s Paradise” by Naguib Mahfouz, 364; “Violets” by Ghalib Hamzah Abu al-Faraj, 368 ; “Black Night at Miawaddy” by Paradon Sakda, 372.

Short stories online, 378

Exercises to test your mastery of Chapter Ten, 379

Chapter Eleven: The Novel, 381

Background information, 381

Evolution of the novel, 381

Definitions, 381

Differing views, 382

Something for every taste, 383

Reading the novel, 384

Using skills learned in earlier chapters, 384

Note taking, 384

What to look for when reading novels, 385

Direct statements of themes, 385

Link between cause and effect, 385

Style-theme connection, 385

Looking at analogues, 385
The esthetics of omission, 385
The novel's architecture, 386
Pride and Prejudice by Jane Austen, 386
Essential plot structure, 387
Interpretation skills reviewed, 387
Major themes in Pride and Prejudice: love and marriage, 388
Performance versus reflection, appearance versus reality, 389
Fallible judgments: process of self-knowledge, 390
Three modern novels: The Stranger by Albert Camus, The Great Gatsby by F. Scott Fitzgerald, and A Passage to India by E. M. Forster 391
The Stranger, 3931
Steps in reading modern novels, 392
Pay close attention to the text, 392
Look for other, more visible structural devices, 394
Major divisions by themes, 394
Sustained and systematic use of imagery, 394
Safe and valid interpretation, 395
Questionable but interesting interpretation, 396
Interpreting the "dark," 396
Look for omission of expected details, 397
Look for parallel sets of characters, 399
Look for contrasting characters/contrasting themes, 399
Coincidence and chance, 400
Analyze analogues, example via "That Time of Year" by Shakespeare, 401
Plot structuring devices in The Great Gatsby and A Passage to India, 402
The esthetics of deliberate omission in the two novels, 402
Other plot-structuring devices in the two novels, 405
The Great Gatsby: Parallelism, 405; flashback and flash forward, 405; symbols: machines, 406; dust and ashes, 407; the wind song, 407; echoes of hope and longing, 408
Other structural devices in A Passage to India, 408
The three-part structure of the novel, 408; recurring images, 409; symbolism of the mechanization of civilization, 410
Enhanced understanding with critics' help, 411;
Example: Zadie Smith on Jane Austen and E. M. Forster, 411
Writing a review of a literary work or movie, 413
Sample essays:
Writing on a single topic from a novel, combining plot, character, and theme, 407
"The Awakening of Meursault in Camus' The Stranger, 417
"In Defense of Meursault," 419
"Perils of the American Dream in The Great Gatsby, 422
Sample essay by the author of this book, 424
Sample book review: "Frankenstein by Mary Shelley," 428
Five more novels introduced with students' essays: "The Library Card" from Black Boy by Richard Wright, Excerpts from America is in the Heart: A Personal History by Carlos Bulosan, Down These Mean Streets by Piri Thomas, "Á Pair of Tickets" from The Joy Luck Club by Amy Tan, House of Sand and Fog by Andre

Dubus III, 430-437

Exercises to test your mastery of Chapter Eleven, 438

Chapter Twelve: Drama, 447

Required background knowledge, 447

A navigation chart for this chapter, 448

Brief history of drama, 449

Greek drama, 449

Origins, 449

Period between classical Greek and Shakespearean drama, 449

Shakespearean drama, 450

Tragic and serious drama, 450

Elements central to tragic drama, 451

Other important discussions of tragic drama, 453

Comedy, 454

Tragicomedy, 456

Other forms of modern drama: dialectical theater, absurdist drama, existential plays 457;

angry theater, the theater of cruelty, more on the theater of the absurd, 458

Discussion of Samuel Beckett's Waiting for Godot, 459

Theories and practices of serious drama: According to Hamlet, 460

According to A. C. Bradley, "The Substance of Shakespearean Tragedy," 461

According to Arthur Miller, "Tragedy and the Common Man," 464

Classical vs. modern tragedy, 468

One-act plays, 470: Before Breakfast by Eugene O'Neill, 470

Contemporary plays, 472

Plays on pressing current issues: Trifles by Susan Glaspell, 473

Seven Jewish Children – a play for Gaza by Caryl Churchill, 475

Comments on Churchill's play by the author of this book, 479

Domestic Crusaders by Wajahat Ali, 482

Essay on Ali's play by the author of this book, 482

Study questions to prepare for a timed test on theories of serious drama, 483

Writing on topics from plays: assignments and instructions, 484

Topics for discussion and writing on Hamlet, 486

Topics relevant to drama in general, 490

Sample essays: 493

"Hamlet's Enduring Appeal," an essay by the author of this book, 493

Horatio: A Source of Hope in Hamlet, 499

On Shaw's Pygmalion: Education and Class in Shaw's Pygmalion: a review, 501

On Eugene O'Neill's Long Day's Journey into Night, 504

Ah, Wilderness: O'Neill's Rare Romantic Comedy, 505

On Lorraine Hansberry's A Raisin in the Sun: A Perfect Plot Design for American Dreams and Nightmares, 506; True to Your Dreams, 508

On Octavio Solis' Gibraltar: Solis' "Gibraltar" Drills the Depths of Love and Loss: A review, 512

Exercises to test your mastery of Chapter Twelve, 514

Chapter Thirteen: Poetry, 523

Use of poetry in a reading and writing development program, 523

Introduction to some forms of poetry: the epic, 523; sonnet 524; ode 524; ballad 524; sestina 524; limerick 524; villanelle 524; lyric 525; (the ghazal, see page 621 toward the end of the chapter)

Reasons for the difficulty of some modern poetry, 525

Some definitions of poetry, 526

Befriending poetry, 528

Writing on a poem's themes, 529

Sample essay on Robert Hayden's sonnet "Those Winter Sundays," 529

Interpretation of a complex poem, 531

Poem: "Ode to a Nightingale" by John Keats, 532

Sample essay: What Does the Nightingale Really Say? 535

Sample essays:

Complex Poems and Conflicting Interpretations: T. S. Eliot's "The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock, 538

Poem: "The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock" by T.S. Eliot, 538

Interpretation of Eliot's poem, 542

Evaluation of style in poetry, 543

Poem: "the greedy the people" by e.e. cummings, 545

Sample essay: Evaluation of e.e. cummings' style in "the greedy the people," 546

Options for writing about poetry, 549

19 assignment topics, 549-550

Optional stylistic elements that you use in your own writing, 551

Sample essays on poems: 552

Analyzing poems on poetry: Poems: "Ars Poetica" by Archibald MacLeish, 552 and "Ars Poetica" by Linda Pastan, 553; Sample essay: The Art of Poetry According to Archibald MacLeish and Linda Pastan, 554

Poems that dramatize the all-consuming nature of love: Poem: "Bright Star" by John Keats, 556; Sample essay: Rejection of immortality in Keats's "Bright Star," 556

Poems that blend theme and style in a unique manner:

Poem: "Insect Collection" by Janice Mirikitani, 558; Sample essay: Silenced Pain – Evaluation of Mirikitani's Theme and Style in "Insect Collection," 559

Poems with contrasting views on the same topic: Poems: "Design" by Robert Frost and "Apparently with no surprise" by Emily Dickinson, 560; Sample essay: The Darker Side of Nature, 560

Poems to convert haters into lovers of poetry, 562: "Modern Love" by Douglas Dunn, (online reading); "Intimates" by D. H. Lawrence, 564; "To a Mistress Dying" by William Davenant, 564; and "What I Heard at the Discount Department Store" by David Budbil, 565

Sample essay: Pheasant Hunting: Converting Haters to Lovers of Poetry, 563

Connecting poems with novels: Comparison of Elizabeth Bishop's poem "The Fish" with Ernest Hemingway's novel The Old Man and the Sea

Poem: "The Fish" by Elizabeth Bishop, 566

Sample essay: Big Fish Stories' Similar Themes in Bishop's "The Fish," and Hemingway's The Old Man and the Sea, 568

Connecting poems with movies, 569

Sample essay: "Is Your Enemy Human: Similar Answers of Hiroshima Mon Amour and "Vergissmeinnicht," 570

Interpretation through character analysis: Poem: "The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock" by T.S. Eliot, 572; Sample essay: "Prudence, Prurience, and Other Things that Begin with Pru," 572

Poems that connect life's mysteries with the magic of art:

Poem: "The Wild Swans at Coole" by William Butler Yeats, 576

Sample essay: "Artistic Spans: Linking Ephemeral Human Existence with Nature's

Permanence through Art (Comparison of William Butler Yeats's "The Wild Swans at Coole" with John Keats's "Ode to a Nightingale"), 576

Connecting a great poem from the past with a significant event of today: "Dover Beach West" (Herb Caen on Matthew Arnold's poem "Dover Beach"), 579

Poems with significant historical and political themes: Poems: "First Writing Since" by Suheir Hammad, 581; "The History of the Airplane" by Lawrence Ferlinghetti, 585; Sample essay: Emotional versus Intellectual Responses to 9-11, 586

Poems that handle emotional pain with aesthetic beauty: Poems: "Getting Through" by Deborah Pope, 587; "Getting Out" by Cleopatra Mathis, 588; "To Autumn" by John Keats (in Chapter Six)

Sample essays: Closure in Deborah Pope's "Getting Through" and Cleopatra Mathis's "Getting Out," 588; Poetic Conclusions: The Art of Goodbye, 590; Tranquility of Golden Autumn, 592.

Writing a research paper based on one or two poems:

Poem: "These are the days when Birds come back" by Emily Dickinson, 594

Sample essay: "Time, Sense, and Transcendence: Dickinson and Keats on an Autumn Day," 595

Poems on specific themes

Home, Immigration, Exile, and Barriers, 597:

"Ellis Island" by Joseph Bruchac, 597; "The New Colossus" by Emma Lazarus, 597; "Harlem" by Langston Hughes, 599; "La Migra" by Pat Mora, 599; "Drum" by Linda Hogan, 601; "Exile" by Judith Ortiz Cofer, 602; "Mending Wall" by Robert Frost, 603

Love Poems: "The River-Merchant's Wife: A Letter" by Li-Po, 605; "My mistress' eyes" by William Shakespeare, 606; "To His Coy Mistress" by Andrew Marvell, 607; "One Word is Too Often Profaned" by Percy Shelley, 609; "La Belle Dame sans Merci" by John Keats, 609; "Touched by an Angel" by Maya Angelou, 612; "Here I Love You" by Pablo Neruda, 612; "If I die" by Pablo Neruda, 613; "Say I Love You" by Nizar Qabbani, 614

Poems about power, decline, mortality, and eternity:

"Ozymandias" by Percy Shelley, 615; "Buffalo Bill" by e. e. cummings, 616; "Sailing to Byzantium" by William Butler Yeats, 616

Poetry in Translation, 619

Three poems by Omar Khayyam: "Ah, Fill the Cup," 619; "Perplext No More," 619 and "Khayyam, If You Are Drunk," 620; "The Chickpea" by Jalaluddin Rumi, 620

Some background information on the poet-king Bahadur Shah Zafar and the Ghazal form, 621

Poem: "My Heart Feels Dislocated in These Ruins" by Bahadur Shah Zafar, 622;

Poems: "Suppressed Longings" (aah ko chahiye) by Mirza Asadullah Khan Ghalib, 623; "Walk Alone" by Rabindranath Tagore, 625; "Life" by Muhammad Iqbal, 626; "Nationalism" by Muhammad Iqbal, 626; "The Artist" by Waseem Bareilvi, 627; "Blackout: India-Pakistan War, 1965" by Faiz Ahmed Faiz, 628

Moving from an informal journal to an essay: Sample essay: "Faiz Ahmed Faiz and the Cure for Blindness," 629

Poem: "Sinkiang" by Faiz Ahmed Faiz, 632

More poems in translation, 633

"Stream of Life" by Rabindranath Tagore, 633; Four poems by Muhammad Iqbal – "Morning Star," 634 ;

“The Story of Adam,” 635; “New Shrine,” 636; “A Child’s Prayer,” 636; “Prayer” by Faiz Ahmed Faiz, 637; An excerpt from “The Subject of Poetry” by Faiz Ahmed Faiz, 637

Poems for further reading: “To Toussaint L’Ouverture” by William Wordsworth, 638 ; Three poems by George Gordon, Lord Byron – “She Walks in Beauty,” 638; “Sonnet on Chillon,” 639; “Childe Harold’s Pilgrimage from Canto IV,” 639; “Ulysses” by Alfred, Lord Tennyson, 640; “Tithonus” by Alfred, Lord Tennyson, 641; “My Last Duchess” by Robert Browning, 643 ; “The Buried Life” by Matthew Arnold, 644; “Memorial Verses” by Matthew Arnold, 647; “The Second Coming” by William Butler Yeats, 648; “Let America Be America Again” by Langston Hughes, 649; “Specialist Noah Charles Pierce” by Marguerite Guzman Bouvard, 651 ; “In the Dungeon of my Skin” by Madeline Coopsammy, 652 ; “Uluhaimalama” by Mahealani Kamauu, 653; “How to Watch Your Brother Die” by Michael Lassell, 653; “Black Cat Blues” by Kevin Young, 656; “The Prison Cell” by Mahmoud Darwish, 656; “Tailgate in the Twilight Zone” by Gary Becker, 658

Pro-peace poems and songs: “One Today” by Richard Blanco, 659; “Masters of War” song by Bob Dylan, 660; “Lives in the Balance” song by Jackson Browne, 661; “Imagine” song by John Lennon, 663; “Idle No More: Poem to the World” by Daniel Leo Richard, 664

Poems online, 664

Exercises to test your mastery of Chapter Thirteen, 665

Chapter Fourteen: Film, 669

Introduction, 669

Film interpretation, 670

Technical and stylistic elements in film: Setting, dialogue and soliloquy, stream of consciousness, flashback, flash forward, montage, camera, long shot, close-up, composition, camera angles in film serving as tone and point of view, music, imagery, symbolism, irony, 671

Topics for writing and discussion and topic suggestions, 672

Sample essays and exercises, 674:

Sample essay on Alain Resnais’ Hiroshima Mon Amour

Sample essay on Stephen Frears’ Dangerous Liaisons

Sample essay on Satyajit Ray’s Charulata

Sample review and essay on Sam Mendes’ American Beauty

Sample essay on Paul Haggis’ Crash

Sample review of Steven Spielberg’s Schindler’s List

Sample essay on similarities of themes in Alain Resnais’ movie Hiroshima Mon Amour and Keith Douglas’s poem “Vergissmeinnicht”

List of movies discussed or mentioned in this chapter: In alphabetical order, 674

American History X, Bartleby, Bonnie and Clyde, Charulata, Citizen Kane, The Color of Fear, Crash, Dangerous Liaisons, Doctor Zhivago, Easy Rider, Elegy, Emma, Gandhi, The Great Gatsby, Hamlet, Hiroshima Mon Amour, The Hours, La Soufriere, La Strada, Lackawanna Blues, The Last Picture Show, The Last Temptation of Christ, Lawrence of Arabia, The Misfits, An Occurrence at Owl Creek Bridge, Pieces of April, Pride and Prejudice, Rashomon, The Return of the Native, Schindler’s List, Sense and Sensibility, Shall We Dance, The Talented Mr. Ripley, Tom and Viv

Exercises to test your mastery of Chapter Fourteen, 674

Chapter Fifteen: Playful Responses to Serious Works: Literature for Laughter, 675

Use of humor in the study of serious classics, 675

Hamlet’s famous soliloquy “To be or not to be,” 675, and a sample parody by the author of this book 676, to show how great ideas need appropriate language to be expressed

Contents

---

Humor in tragic plays, 676

Ridiculing trendy speech patterns: Sample: "Like, Cool," 677-678

Parody of serious poetry: Parody of William Wordsworth by John Hamilton Reynolds and parody of Matthew Arnold's "Dover Beach" in "Dover Bitch" by Anthony Hecht, 678

Writing a comic letter about a serious work, 678

Sample: Erin Kehoe's comic letter to Albert Camus, "Befriending The Stranger," 679-680. These letters ask the authors to make changes in their works to pander to the popular taste (exemplifying the comic device of parody)

Creating a missing scene for comic effects, 682

Writing a comic character sketch, potential for an irreverent research paper, 683

Humorous comparative character analysis, 683

Comic treatment of a serious topic in an essay: "On Being Crazy" by W. E. B. DuBois, 684

Two more humorous essays: "Love Is a Fallacy" by Max Schulman and "Courtship Through the Ages" by James Thurber, 684-687

Humorous short stories, 687

"The Morning of the Night Before" by Khushwant Singh, 687 and "The Open Window" by H. H. Munro (Saki), 688. Both stories are to be read online or from a book.

Analysis of the two above short stories, 687-688

Comic poetry: two limericks by Laurence Perrine – "Two brothers," and "A monkey," 689

Humor & wit in today's serious literature: example – Kevin Young's poem "Black Cat Blues," 689

An Invitation, 690

Summary of Humor-making devices discussed in this chapter: comic exaggeration; comic stereotyping; deliberate misunderstanding; double-meaning words; irony; paradox; puns; reduction to absurdity; humorous suspense, 690

Exercises to test your mastery of Chapter Fifteen, 691

Appendix, 693

Works Cited, 699

Index, 707

Copyright acknowledgements